THE NAMES of our WONDERFUL LORD

The Names of our

Wonderful Lord

By Harry Bultema

To our Three Sons and Four Daughters who all have confessed our wonderful Lord as their personal Savior.

The Names of our Wonderful Lord

One of the many blunders dogmatic theology has generally made was that it neglected the Old Testament to a large degree. A lack of the knowledge of Hebrew and of Prophecy perhaps partly accounted for this; it is partly due, if not mainly so, to the fact that the Old Testament was underestimated in its Christological value, and this in turn was due to the exclusively theocentric idea of theology. The most outstanding fact Of Christology is the absolute Godhead of Christ. When this is fully and Scripturally established, all the other christological doctrines are substantiated as well, and we therefore shall enter somewhat lengthily into this great pivotal truth. Christ's Deity is known especially from His names, His attributes, His works, and the honors accorded Him, but in this brief study we only deal with His names.

Dogmatics has all too often just treated briefly three or four of His names, but if in introducing an earthly personality of some exalted position, we would not fail to give his full name and title, how much less should teachers of doctrine fail to give due prominence to the many names and titles of our precious Savior. It may lie outside the scope of a little work like this to include all His names and titles, a fair attempt has at any rate been made to delve into this wealth of material in order to exhibit His greatness. Alphabetically some of His most important names and titles follow:

AB, Father, Isa. 9:6

In the Orient the founder or originator of any custom is often spoken of as father as we see early in Gen. 4:20, 21. A man that kills two lions may be known as the father of the lions. The child born as the Prince of peace will be known in the day of His rule as the Father of eternity, not only because He gives eternal life, but because He is the Leader in the ages to come. The word ab, singly and in combinations is found about fifteen hundred times. The word has entered our English as abbot and abbey. In the essential Trinity this name belongs exclusively to God the Father, in the economical Trinity this name is borne by the Savior to denote His great love and care for all His own in the coming ages, and because of His paternal authority.

ADAM, Last, I Cor. 15:45

The Bible does not speak of our Lord as the second Adam, but as the last Adam. He is not just one in a row but the last. Finality is in Him. Paul shows in the beautiful parallel of Rom. 5 that Christ is in every way superior to the first Adam. There may be many similarities between the two, the dissimilarities are far greater in number and character. The contrasts in Rom. 5 and I Cor. 15:45-49 between the two Adams make this abundantly clear. The first Adam dismally failed under the most favorable conditions, the last Adam gloriously triumphed under the most unfavorable circumstances. The first was a king in the garden, the last Adam crawled as a worm in the garden.

ADONAI

In the A. V. this Hebrew word is always rendered Lord with small letters except the first. It occurs nearly 300 times for God, and also nearly 300 times for man. When used for God it is always plural and with the possessive meaning my Lords. Like Elohim the plural undoubtedly points to a plurality of Persons in the one Being. When applied to men it often is translated master. Whenever it is used of men it is always used in the singular, adon. That this pluralized word contains a suggestion of Trinity appears from Ps. 110:1, seven times quoted and applied to Christ: "Jehovah said unto my Adoni, sit thou on My right hand." This word is oftener quoted and applied to Christ than any other word of the Old Testament. Note that the singular as referring to Christ could not be pluralized. Mark assures its that what David said was "said by the Holy Ghost," Mark 12:36; Matt. 22:41-45; Luke 20:41-44; Acts 7:56; Eph. 1:20; Col. 3:1; Heb. 1:3; 8:1; 10:11-13; 12:2. In fact, with seven quotations are at least eight clear allusions to this statement.

ADVOCATE

The word Paraclete is applied to both Christ and His Spirit. An ancient advocate was a lawyer called to the side of a client for help. The Dutch name for lawyer is still advocate. His intercession is more general, His advocacy more particular in regard to sin and the accuser of the brethren. When saints have sinned they need this Advocate as John teaches. He is faithful and just to forgive all our sins.

ALIEN, Ps. 69:8

He is called an "alien unto my mother's children," which may safely be regarded as a strong hint of His virgin birth. He did not say: "my father's children," since He had no earthly father. We know that His mother's children did not believe in Him, Matt. 11:6; John 7:5, until after His resurrection. This text interestingly proves that Mary's children were not his cousins but his real half-brothers, sons of Mary.

ALPHA AND OMEGA, Rev. 1:8

This majestic title occurs four times in Revelation. He does not say that He is the Hebrew Aleph and Tau, but the first and last Greek letter in order to designate Himself as the universal Savior. He bore the name the First and the Last already in Isa. 44:6. As the Alpha He must hold the precedence in our affection and life. He is the Omega, or big O literally, in an eschatological sense as the one that comes to wind up all things, in His day after man's evil day is passed.

ALMIGHTY, Rev. 1:8

This is the El-shaddai of the Old Testament. In contradistinction to the name Jehovah God was known especially to the Patriarchs by this name. We find this name first in Gen. 17:1,2. This appellative occurs sixty-two times, and one-half of these are in Job. This name does not only point to omnipotence but to all-sufficiency. The Hebrew comes evidently from shad, breast. As the breast of a mother is all-sufficient for the suckling, so our Lord Jesus is the all and all for His own, the source of every gift and bliss for His own, and the breast also that pours out all the vials of judgment upon the ungodly. His omnipotence always meets our impotence. We can safely entrust our body and soul to Him for time and for eternity, because He is the Almighty.

ALTOGETHER LOVELY, Cant. 5:16

The word lovely is machmad. This word appears seventeen times. It is used of all the pleasant things in a palace, I Kings 20:6; I Chr. 36:19. It is also used of all the pleasant things of God's house, Isa. 64:11; Lam. 1:7, 10, 11; 2:4; Joel 3:5; 4:5. Ezekiel's wife is called the desire of his eyes, 24:6, 21, 25. Her sudden death was to vividly portray the fact that God would suddenly take from the people the temple which was the delight of their eyes. When the bride therefore says that the bridegroom is altogether lovely, then this is a unique statement freighted with meaning. It could in the final analysis only be said of our adorable Lord, who alone is worthy to he praised forever and who alone is altogether lovely. All the Gospels and Epistles are there to prove that Christ alone fully fulfills this beautiful appellation.

AMEN

This solemn word should never he used with levity, since the glorified Lord in heaven calls Himself the Amen, Rev. 3:14. It is from an Hebrew verb which means to be firm and in the hiphil, or the causative form, to lay a firm foundation and in the reflexive form, to rest and entrust yourself to someone. The amen as we use it after our prayers contains an expression of confidence that our requests have been heard and will be answered. In the Old Testament the word generally follows a statement, the Savior in John's Gospel puts a double Amen, rendered verily, verily, at the beginning of a declaration. This Hebrew word has deeply entered into our prayers, preaching and soul-winning.

Whenever you hear the word Amen, remember that it is one of the many names of our wonderful Lord.

ANGEL OF THE COVENANT

The first time this uncreated Angel manifested Himself was to the forlorn, outcast female slave Hagar as she sat in the wilderness of Shur, Gen. 16:7-14. She recognized His God-head for she called the name of the Lord saying: "Thou, God, seest me." This Angel redeemed Jacob from all evil, and it was His blessing Jacob implored at Pniel and subsequently upon his grandchildren. Isaiah speaking of Israel says: "So He was their Savior - the Angel of His presence saved them; in His love and His pity he redeemed them, and He bore them and carried them all the days of old," Isa. 63: 8,9. His name was wonderful, Judg. 13:15-22. He was all around them that fear Him, Ps. 34:7. This Angel is Jehovah and as such He appeared before and after Christ's birth, Matt. 1:20,24; 2:13,19; Luke 1:11-38: 2:9-21; Acts 5:19; 7:30-53; 10: 3,7,22; 12:7-23; 27:23. After the dispensational boundary line of Acts 28 when the judgment of blindness was laid upon Israel, here mentioned for the seventh time, this Angel of the Lord never appeared once. In the Epistles He never appears. In Revelation are many angels, but apparently not this particular one. He is called the Angel of the Covenant, because He is the cause, the essence, and the fulfiller of all the covenantal blessings.

APOSTLE, Heb. 3:1

Apostle means one that is sent. Especially in the Gospel of John our Lord speaks often of Himself as the sent one. Like Jonah He was sent to the Nineveh of this world, but not to preach against her but to die for it. His mission of God was infinitely harder than that of His prototype Jonah, but He did not flee to escape His mission, no, He said: "Lo I come to do Thy will, O God." As the Father has sent Him into the world, so now He sent us into this world, John 20:21.

ARM OF THE LORD, Isa. 51:9,10

Time and again this arm is personified or rather it denotes a person. The finger of God stands for His least exertion, and yet by His finger He created the heavens, we read. By His arm He performed all the wonders of the Exodus, Dent. 7:8 ; Ps. 67:15. This arm of the Lord could be known by revelation only, Isa. 53:1. Now we can understand why everyone is cursed that makes flesh his arm, Jer. 17:5. Underneath are the everlasting arms, Dent. 33:26, 27. This arm gets the victory, Ps. 98:1. The awaking of this arm means His return. No, this arm is not merely an emblem of strength but a person as appears from the prayer: "Be Thou their arm every morning," Isa. 33:2. "Set me as a seal upon thine arm." Isa. 59:16.

AUTHOR AND FINISHER OF OUR FAITH, Heb. 12:2

Christ originated our faith and He will also finish it in His day, Phil. 1 :6. The Arminian school of theology thinks that faith is something that each man possesses; only through a wrong will he puts his faith on the wrong objects of this world and of sin. The Word clearly teaches us in Eph. 2:5-8 that faith is the gift of God, and not an inherent quality of man. In fact according to Heb. 12:1 faith is an hypostasis, in reality a Person who stands under the whole scheme of salvation. In Heb. 1:3 this word is rendered Person. Just as He inaugurated our faith so He also finishes it when in His glad day faith shall become the beatific vision. How our hearts yearn for this glad day.

BABE, Luke 2:12

A babe is the most helpless thing in the world, and such our Lord in mercy became. This little bundle of life was wrapped and the world did not know what this wrapped little package from heaven meant for them. He lay in a crib, but in the crib He was on the way to the cross and the crown of the universe. He humbled Himself so deeply in order that the humblest of earth might he attracted to Him. Let us with the wise men adore Him!

BEGINNING OF THE CREATION OF GOD, Rev. 3:14

Many read this word as if it said that He was the beginning of the creatures and then make Him a great creature. If He were only a creature He could never be our Savior, Keeper, and Perfecter. The word arche should never have been rendered beginning, for it means the Ruler, the Chief, the one that is above all creation. He is above all creation for He is the Creator of all creatures, visible and invisible. He is not one with us, but in His humiliation He identified Himself with our sin in that He was made sin for us.

BELOVED, Isa. 5:1-7

In the days of His humiliation the Father gave three times an attestation from heaven to His beloved Son; at His baptism, on the Mount of transfiguration, and just before His capture. We have been accepted in the Beloved, Eph. 1:6. Not less than twenty-seven times is He thus called in Canticles. David's name means beloved, and he is herein the great type of our Beloved; the weary, waiting Church cries today: "Make haste, my Beloved," - and this cry will now soon be answered.

BISHOP OF SOULS, 1 Peter 2:25

Christ is the great Episcopos, but He is not Episcopal for liberalism and ritualism are gruesome to Him, especially in the age of grace. The word means overseer, and it is a sweet thought to know that He is the Overseer of our souls. We never need to sigh disconsolately: "No one cares for my soul," but we can sing: "No one cares for us like Jesus." Our wayward souls, representing an immense value for greater than the whole cosmos, need overseeing and watching because of the world and Satan, thank God, our great Overseer never sleeps on the switch and His mind is never dimmed with slumber.

BRANCH

The Lord is called a branch in Isa. 4:2 ; Jer. 23:5 ; 33:15; Zech. 3:5; 6:12. The word signifies a tender twig or shoot growing from the stem of a tree. It is a fruit-bearing branch, Isa. 4:2. His fruit shall be excellent and comely, Isa. 27:6; Jer. 33:15. In Isa. 11:1 another word is used. Here a tender shoot is meant that sprouts out of a stump of a felled tree, pointing to the humble babe from the trunk of Jesse. See also Isa. 53:2. In Rev. 22:16 Christ explains this branch by saying: "I am the root and the offspring of David." The word netzer tender sprout, perhaps explains the word Nazareth. It need not be said that this and other of these names are not essential names of the Son of God, but characteristic, descriptive, names of the Messiah.

BREAD

Bread is the staff of life, Isa. 3:1, strengthening man's heart, Ps. 104:15. Man can live without all luxuries, but not without bread in the sense of food. Bread and water are joined as the support of life, Es. 23:25, bread and wine as the comforts of life, Gen. 14:13, bread and honey as the dainties of life, Ps. 81:16. The manna and the shewbread foreshadowed Him who calls Himself the Bread of life, John 6:35. Bread came from His life cut off and baked by fire, a real picture of the Christ crucified. As He of old satisfied Israel for forty years with the bread of heaven, so He now satisfies our needs as sinners and saints with this Bread from heaven, John 6:32,33. Those who ate the manna died, those who eat this Bread shall hunger no more, Rev. 7:16. Do you daily feed and feast upon Him as the Bread from heaven?

CAPTAIN, Jos. 5:14

Joshua thought of himself as the great captain of the Lord's hosts, but the grand visitor from heaven showed him otherwise. He was only an inferior, a petty officer under the great Captain of the Lord's hosts. His sword was drawn to show that He is ever ready to give battle and to conquer. His unseen hosts of heaven are innumerable. Christ is the archegos, translated captain in Heb. 2:10, prince in Acts 3:15; 5:31, and author in Heb. 12:2. The words Strategos and Chiliarchos, both meaning captain are not used for Christ. These were left for the militarism of the world. In Ps. 147 He assures us that He has no pleasure in the strength of the horse, or Cavalry, nor in the legs of man, or infantry, but He does have pleasure in those that fear Him and that hope in His mercy. Let us then fear Him and hope in His coming mercies!

CHIEF, Cant. 5:10

In the day of His humiliation He was as one that served. In John 13:1, 17 He did the most menial task of the slave. After the cross and resurrection Peter said: "Let all the house of Israel know assuredly that God hath made the same Jesus both Lord and Christ," and Paul said that He must have the priority? no, the preeminence in all things, Col. 1:15-19. He does not want your best but your all. Give this Chief your homage, your adoration, your heart.

CHIEFEST AMONG TEN THOUSAND

This phrase of Cant. 5:10 has become a name of our beloved Savior. According to the margin it means a standard-bearer among ten thousand, but a standard bearer is not the chief, but the very lowest officer of the regiment. When our youngest son had been only a few weeks in the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, he was made a standard-bearer. The original phrase is dagul meribabuh The word dagal corresponds to our flay, or banner, standard, which is carried at the head of the marching troops. The other word is a passive participle and cannot mean one who carries the flag, but one before whom, in whose honor the flag is carried. The meaning is therefore that the beloved who is white and ruddy, is so glorious that ten thousand standards are displayed for His honor. The flags of all nations will soon be unfurled before Him who loved us and gave Himself for us.

CHILD, Isa. 7:6

Christ became a child in order to cover with His holy life the naughty life of our sinful childhood. He was the perfect model of holy childhood. Luke 2:51. In Acts 4:27 He is called by Peter the holy child Jesus. He loved the infants and clasped them in His arms, Mark 10:13-16. Children, come to this great Friend of children. He will bring you to heaven.

CHRIST, Matt. 16:16; Luke 9:20

This official title appears hundreds of times. Christian, christianity, christendom, and other words have sprung from it. This title includes His office of Prophet, Priest, and King. The title Jesus the Christ is used one hundred times. His resurrection was the official and public declaration that God had made the crucified one both Lord and Christ, Acts 2:36. The word Christ is the Greek for the Hebrew Messiah, Anointed. As Jesus was His personal name, so this is His official title. In his Letters Paul calls Him Christ 557 times, whereas he uses the name Jesus alone but twelve times. In Hebrews the name Jesus occurs nine times. Paul used the name Jesus Christ ninety-one times and also Christ Jesus nearly one hundred times. Our Savior was anointed with the antitypical oil of joy above all His fellows, and we have His anointing. The antitypical oil poured from the Head upon all His members.

COMFORTER

Christ is the Comforter, the Spirit the other Comforter. The unique book of Lamentations is in reality a collection of five separate elegies bewailing the desolation of Jerusalem. It is the wail of a broken heart and the most pathetic elegy ever written. It is perfect in form as well as in spirit: each elegy is an acrostic, consisting of as many verses as there are letters in the Hebrew alphabet. Hebrew elegiac poetry has this peculiarity that the lines of unusual length come to a sudden and abrupt end, suggesting no doubt that the long and weary desolation and suffering will come to a sudden and glorious wind-up. For one who reads it attentively and with sympathetic feeling, it produces a wondrous effect. It has been called a song of despair, but this is positively wrong. It is just the opposite of despair. It is a song of hope rising as the phoenix out of the dust and ashes of the desolate city and out of the contrite, broken heart of the man of God, who identifies himself with the guilty city and takes as it were the burden of her guilt upon him. Both Israel and Israel's Redeemer are typified by him. Many of his words are charged with Messianic meaning as 1:12, 16, 17, 22; 2:15; 3:14-30. The word for comforter in 1:16 is fundamentally the same as Noah and Menahem. The ancient Rabbies saw here the Messiah as the great Comforter that was to come and who was already expected by Lamech in Genesis 5:29.

He says there is "none to comfort," Lam. 1:17, 22. Three times the sad poet-prophet speaks of the absence of comfort. He calls Egypt and Assur Israel's lovers that had deceived her. The heart of misery is misery of heart, and that feels the need of comfort in this tearful world, and as a rule the God of all comfort has for His own a pillow for the weary head, a soothing and healing for the restless and broken heart, a bottle for the tears, a cordial for the fainting spirit, a haven for the storm-tossed souls; but here was none to comfort. Why did He whose name is Consolation of Israel not bring comfort? Because the time had arrived in which God said Lo-Ammi, Lo-Ruhama, not my people and not having mercy, and God does not comfort the wicked but only His people.

COMMANDER, Isa. 55:4

In troublous times like ours many would like to see a commander like McArthur or Eisenhower in the White House, since strong warriors know best how to subdue the uproarious masses. The sea of nations is so stormy that the world needs a strong commander to hold the raging elements in check. God has a great Commander ready for this mad and rebellious world. He is now seated at the right hand of God. He is so popular with the Father, that He gave Him the most exalted seat of honor, power, and majesty, and that while Israel and all the nations - our own included! - reject Him. Oh Commander Jesus, come and take the reins of the world's government and bridle the money madness, the lust madness, the liquor madness and the pleasure mania!

CONSOLATION, Luke 2:25

Old Simeon was waiting for the coming of the Paraclete, the one coming to the side of Israel in order to help them. Israel as a nation rejected this Helper, but all that received this Paraclete, received also the consolation of the indwelling Spirit of God, I Thess. 1:5. He became eternal consolation to us and also a strong consolation, Heb. 6:18. Come all ye disconsolate to this Consolation.

CORNERSTONE, Ps. 118:16; Eph. 2:20; I Peter 2:6

The Father and the Spirit use great adjectives of this wondrous stone: tried, precious, a sure foundation. "On the Rock of ages founded, naught can shake our sure repose." Israel disallowed this stone, to us God made Him the foundation stone, cornerstone, topstone. All that rest on this stone are become living stones themselves, I Peter 2:5, 6. The mysterious stone is met in all Scriptures. We meet him in the life of many an ancient worthy. Many now stumble on it, and soon it will crush the world powers to smithereens and chaff blown before the storm of His fury.

COUNSELLOR, Isa. 9:6

No one ever taught Him as His counsellor, Isa. 40:13. He said of old, counsel is mine, Prov. 8:14. The leaders of Israel rejected the counsel of God against themselves, Acts 13:46. As the Counsellor our Lord will some day answer all the problems and perplexities of suffering humanity. The perplexed and chaotic world needs this great Counsellor to heal all ills.

COVERT, Isa. 32:2

This man shall he a covert from the tempest. When we realize how every poor sinner that came to Him found in Him a hiding place and a covert from the tempest of judgment to come, then we see how this word was realized in Him. All in all eighty times we are told that believers are in Him. It makes no difference how the storms blow, the believer finds Him the covert from the tempest, covered, sheltered, safe, secure for evermore.

CREATOR, Isa. 40:28

In Gen. 2 the title Jehovah Elohim, God in covenant relationships, God as Redeemer, appears ten times. At least seven or eight times the Son is clearly designated in the New Testament as the Creator. Even the celestials glorify Him with a sublime doxology for the fact that He has created all things for His own pleasure. Our Savior is not alone very sweet, very lovely, and forgiving, but He is also very mighty, because He is almighty. Satan and the world and the flesh are strong, but He is the Stronger. He is mighty to save and to keep all those that entrust themselves in faith to Him. My dear one, have you entrusted yourselves to Him?

DAYSPRING, Luke 1:78

Our beloved Savior is the Daysman, the Dayspring, and the Daystar. The word for dayspring is anatole, the sunrise. He arose above our sad world so full of trouble with healing in His wings. The word epiphany, used twice in Tit. 2:11-14 also denotes the sunrise. The personified grace of God appeared above the dark horizon of this troubled world. In His first coming and through His Spirit and His Body, the Church, He did not, and does not banish all the present darkness. This waits for His second appearing. When He chooses Israel for the second time and turns all ungodliness away from Jacob, then this will be as life from the dead, a resurrection from the dead for the whole world, Rom. 11:15.

DELIVERER, Rom. 11:26

In the last awful world war the Allies liberated i.e. delivered the nations of western Europe from the Nazis, but after two years of deliverance, they are still in an awful plight, which all goes to prove that men are not perfect deliverers. While man can deliver from some human foes, he cannot deliver his brother from sin and from Satan and from this evil world; and here our great Deliverer Jesus Christ comes in. He is able to deliver the individual man and mankind collectively from every foe, and soon He will appear to deliver His own even from death and the grave and even from the depths of the sea.

DESIRE OF ALL NATIONS, Hag. 2:7

Subjectively no nation desires our Lord, but objectively and unconsciously He is the desideratum of all nations, which just now are in the most horrible mess, because of their desire of land, gold, might, honor, safety, and the vain ambition to be the first and foremost; everything except Him. David desired just one thing: to see His loveliness in His house. When the nations have this Davidic desire the Millennium shall have arrived. Has He become the desire of your heart? Though the immediate future is dark, the nations face a glorious future.

DESPISED, Isa. 53:3

He was the slender twig sprouting from the old trunk of Jesse, and contrasted with the proud boughs of Lebanon, Isa. 10:34, He was despised, 11:1. They did not reckon in their pride with this tender plant, 53:2. He was a worm and no man, Ps. 22:8; Isa. 49:7. The whole nation abhorred Him. Twenty-one times He is called the Nazarene and it was proverbial that no good thing could come out of Nazareth, John 1:46. He is still despised by Israel and by all the nations of the world, though He rules and feeds them. Meanwhile He is unutterably precious to every believing heart. Has the Despised One from Isa. 53 become your dear Lord and Savior? In this day of grace He still pleads with men to accept Him by faith.

DOOR, John 10:9

He was the door of ancient Eden where the Cherubim dwelt and the two brothers brought their offering. He was also the typical door of the ark, the door of the tabernacle, temple, and of the city of refuge, and finally He presents Himself as the Door. He carries also the keys of the doors of Hades, but we do not read that He is the door of that region. As Samson carried the gates of Gaza away, so He carried for His own the gates of hell away. Anyone that passes by this door and tries to get in some other way is a thief and a murderer, John 10:8.

EL ELYON, the Most High

This name designates God as the Lofty One. This word entered Greece as helium, sun. Speaking of Christ, the apostle says that He is "over all, God blessed for ever," Rom. 9:5. They tempted the Most High, they tempted Christ, I Cor. 10:9. The saints of the Most High are Christ's saints, Dan. 7:18. In Gen. 14 we see this name used for the first time in connection with Melchizedek the Gentile Priest-King. It is His special name as the sovereign God who rules the heavens, and not the earth directly, during the time in which Israel is set aside as the Lo-Ammi and Lo-Ruhamah, and in addition to this, scattered over all the earth as Jezreel, Hos. 1-3. The triune God rules the earth of course as the great Creator and Preserver of all things; but not Christ as the Mediator and Priest-King. Satan as the god of this age and prince of this world, holds the world in his lap and seduces all nations, Rev. 20:3. Satan still dwells high, but Christ is El Elyon, the Most High.

ELECT, Isa. 42:1

"Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine Elect, in whom my soul delighteth," Elect of God, rejected of men, I Peter 2:6-8. Essentially one with God, He could as God not be elected, but this refers to Him as the Servant and Savior. The word means the choice, the precious one. In this choice one we were chosen, Eph. 1:4. After He chose us we also chose Him by faith as our Lord and Redeemer. Dear reader, has He become the choice of your heart and your life?

ELOHIM, Gen. 1

In the first chapter of the Bible God speaks thirty times of Himself in the plural Elohim. This name is not used because there is no singular of this name. There is a singular form. The singular Eloah is used forty-one times in job alone: but the plural is used far over 2500 times. Formerly theologians generally called this a pluralis majestatis or a pluralis excellentiae i.e. a plural of majesty or of excellence. This generally helped them most conveniently out of all difficulties. But it has been shown in modern times that such a plural was unknown to the Hebrews. The ancient kings like Pharao, Nebuchadnezzar, David and all the other kings always speak in the singular. Hence this interpretation of the name is based upon an anachronism. The plural of majesty belongs not to the Bible but to modern times, as we can see at a glance in Gen. 41:41; Dan. 3:29; Ezr. 1:2. It is a plural of intensity and fulness of the Being of God, who exists as One in three Persons. Modern Judaism fairly hates the doctrine of Holy Trinity, but Pauli has clearly shown in his book on The Great Mystery, that the ancient Rabbis believed in the blessed Trinity of Persons in the one divine Being; but, two centuries after Christ, their enmity against the absolute Godhead of Christ was the main reason why they repudiated this belief of their fathers. Deny His Deity and you set your foot in a barren desert.

EMMANUEL, Isa. 7:14

This was not to be His proper name but the essential name of His redemptive work. Matt. 1:23 shows that Christ is the great Emmanuel, a word implying both His Deity and His humanity. The El is God and the first part of the name shows that God has come down to dwell with men. It is His grand mediaturial name. He is always with Israel, whereas we believers are always said to be with Him.

FAITHFUL CREATOR, I Peter 4:9

He is the faithful witness, Rev. 1:5. He is compassed with faithfulness as His girdle, Isa. 11:5. One of His names when He comes is Faithful, Rev. 19:14. He has His own graven on the palms of His pierced hands, Isa. 49:17. He is faithful and just, I John 1:9. He is faithful to His threats as well as to His promises, Jer. 23:20; 30:24; 51:29; Ps. 149:9. The butler forgot Joseph, Ahasuerus forgot Mordecai, but Jesus never leaves and forsakes His own. If we are faithless, He abideth faithful, II Tim. 2:8-11, hallelujah what a Savior! Love and laud Him all the days of your life on earth. The Spirit came to glorify Him, and it shall be our spiritual task to forever glorify Him.

FIRE

There is a mysterious fire in all the Book of God. It always burned on the altar, Lev. 6:15. All burnt offerings were consumed by it, 9, 12. The incense burned with it, 16:12; Num. 16:46. It came in the tabernacle and temple from the Lord, Lev. 9:24: II Chr. 7:1-3. It was the instrument of holy vengeance, Ps. 97:3 ; Isa. 47:14; 66:16. We see it in the burning bush, Ex. 3:2; it plagued the Egyptians; 9:23,24. It led Israel in the desert, 13:22; 40:38. It burned on Sinai, Deut. 4:11, 36, consumed Nadab and Abihu, Lev. 10:2, destroyed the rebels at Taherah, Num. 11:1, and Korah and his cohorts, 16:35. It consumed the sacrifice of Gideon, Jud. 6:21, and of Samson's parents, 13:20; of Elijah, I Kings 18:38. It destroyed the foes of Elijah and took him finally up in a chariot, II Kings 1:10, 12; II Kings 2:11. Christ shall some day appear in flaming fire, Dan. 7:10; II Thess. 1:8 ; Isa. 10:17; Mal. 3:2. All this typical fire pointed to Him who is for the unbelievers a consuming fire, and whose Word is a fire, Jer. 5:14; 23:29, and whose Spirit is the Spirit of burning, Isa. 4:4. Who appeared at Pentecost in tongues of fire. His holiness and love are unquenchable fires.

FIRST AND LAST

Isaiah has this phrase three times, 41:4; 44:6; 48:12. It is the supreme prerogative of God, but in Revelation it is several times applied to our Lord and Savior, 1:8, 11, 17; 2:8; 22:13. Christ is first in all things. He is the first-born from the dead, Rev. 1:5 ; Col. 1:15; the first-born among many brethren, Rom. 8:29, the first-born of every creature, Col. 1:15, My first-born, higher than the kings of the earth, Ps. 89:27. He was the first babe to lie in that crib undoubtedly, the first to ride that young cult, the first to lie in that new grave. He is and must be the first in all things; and when history shall have run its weary course, then He will be the last. Oh let us make Him preeminent in our heart and home, and let us leave to Him the last, word in every detail of our life.

FIRSTBEGOTTEN OF THE DEAD, Rev. 1:5

The word is Prototokos, the word is an allusion of the firstborn son in Israel who had the threefold right of primogeniture. By the absence or death of the father the oldest son had: a) absolute might and right over all his younger brothers and sisters; b) all the inheritance fall to him which he could share with his younger kin; c) all the honor which was due to the father. This is the threefold idea which lies in the word Prototokos.

FIRSTBORN OF EVERY CREATURE, Col. 1:15

Modern Arians read as if it said that our glorious Lord is the first-created of all creatures. This is not only a misunderstanding but blasphemy, for He is eight times in the New Testament described as the Creator and how could the Creator be at the same time a creature? He could not make Himself. How could a creature ever make all invisible things in heaven? Col. 1:16,17. The same word Prototokos is used here as above, and the same three historical ideas of the ancient firstborn must here be transferred to the great antitype of the firstborn. When this is borne in mind, there is no difficulty whatsoever in these expressions. Let us never degrade but always magnify our great Lord and Savior.

FORERUNNER, Heb. 6:20

Our precious Lord is the Prodromos i.e. the one who runs before, and who even today in the East brushes folk aside to make way for the important party which is coming. Only the rich and influential folk have such forerunners. For whom then is Christ the Forerunner? For Israel. This wonderful nation is the important party that is coming, and when they come back to God, then the whole world will have a resurrection according to the statement in Rom. 11:15.

FOUNDATION, Isa. 28:16

In a shaking world populated with trembling nations we need a sure foundation, but where can we find such a foundation? Paul saw in his day cankering heresy that played havoc with the believers and with the truth, but he assures us: "Nevertheless the foundation of God standeth sure," II Tim. 2:19. The whole house and family of God rest upon this sure foundation, yea even the magnificent fabric of the universe rests upon this sure basis. Earthly foundations decay, but this foundation keeps its durability and strength forever. Come, trembling soul, build upon this sure and only foundation, which God has laid for our salvation, Isa. 28:16; I Cor. 3:11.

FOUNTAIN, Jer. 2:12,13

Our Lord is the Fount of all being and of all bliss. A fountain is no well that must be worked by man's action; no pool that is stagnant, but a freely and perennially bubbling source of sparkling waters. Thus our Lord bubbles up all the love of the triune God to all His own. The fountains of earth are created, but He is the uncreated Fountain that never can run dry, Jer. 2:13; 17:13. His Spirit is also a fountain, John 7:38, 39, and His sacrifice of Calvary as well, Zech. 13:1.

> "The dying thief rejoiced to see this Fountain in his day, and there may you, though vile as he, - wash all your sins away."

FRIEND, Matt. 11:19

He is the friend that loves at all times, Prov. 17:17. Even the ancient Jews interpreted this of the Messiah. He is the friend that ever sticks, 18:24. Even His wounds are faithful, 26:6, and to be preferred above the kisses of a foe. He called even Judas, friend, Matt. 26:50. Abraham is called thrice the friend of God, II Chr. 20:7; Isa. 41:8; Jas. 2:23. Jesus called His disciples twice friends, Luke 12:4; John 15:14,15. He is even the friend of sinners. Sneeringly His enemies called Him so, but this is our salvation. He called Himself of old time and again the God of Jacob. Praise God for His wonderful friendship.

"What a Friend we have in Jesus!"

GIFT, John 4:10

"Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift," II Cor. 9:15. Paul's outburst of praise is but natural when we remember what precious gift the Son of God is. It had made of the blasphemer and persecutor an apostle. The earth is full of His riches, the Church, and every member of the Body, possess all the fullness of Godhead in Him. The Giver and gift are both unspeakable, unutterable by human or angelic tongue. The gift is unspeakable, because it includes all other gifts. How shall He not with Him freely give us all things? Again, the gift is unspeakable because it brings unspeakable joy, I Peter 1:1-8. Finally, this gift is unspeakable because it brings unspeakable glory. Paul was not even in the third heaven, but in Paradise, up to the third heaven, and even there he heard unspeakable words, II Cor. 12:1-7. This good and perfect gift came from the Father of lights to whom be glory forever for this uncomparable gift. Through this gift all things are ours, I Cor. 3:22; Eph. 1:3.

GLORY, Isa. 40:3-5

"The glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all flesh shall see it together." The essential glory of God is inapproachable, a grandeur too dazzling for mortal eyes even to gaze at, I Tim. 6:16. The people could not even stand to look at a faint reflection of that glory on Moses' face, Ex. 34:30. No man of God could stand the glory of God's celestial messenger. David and the elders fell upon their faces, I Chron. 21:16. The priests could not stand to minister when that glory filled the house, I Chron. 5:14. Isaiah cried, "Woe is me for I am undone." Ezekiel fell upon his face, Ezek. 1:28. Daniel fainted, Dan. 8:17; 10:8. The trio at the Transfiguration were sore afraid, Matt. 17:6; Saul was blinded for three days, Acts 9:4; John fell down as a dead man, Rev. 1:17. We see now by faith the glory of God in the face of Christ, II Cor. 3:18, and soon in the beatific vision we shall forever behold him, John 17:24. Like Moses of old He now hides us in the cleft of the Rock to behold part of His glory, only Moses saw it from behind, under law; we see the glory of God in His face. Christ is the God of glory, who appeared to Abraham, Acts 7:2. The glory of the Lord shall be revealed, Isa. 40:5. It cannot be an attribute, for this glory, kabod, has eyes, Isa. 3:8. Christ is styled glory time and again: the glory of the Gentiles, Isa. 66:12; the glory of Israel, Luke 2:32; the Bearer of glory, Zech. 2:5; 6:13; the glory of the only begotten of the Father, John 1:14. The title Glory is also applied to each Person in the holy Trinity as the Father of glory; the Lord of glory; and the Spirit of glory, Eph. 1:17; I Cor. 2:8 ; I Peter 4:14.

GOD

"God came from Teman," Hab. 3:3; His second coming is seen by Habakkuk. Teman has in all other passages where it occurs - twenty-three times - been translated south and southward, and there is no reason whatsoever why it should here not be rendered south. The great Lawgiver comes from the scene of the lawgiving in order to vindicate and revenge His broken law, and then He descends upon the mount of Olivet from where He left the earth, Zech. 14:1-5. A Unitarian said: "If Christ is God why did the Bible not clearly state this?" The truth is that God has stated this over and over in Old and New Testament. "Behold, God is my salvation." "Look unto me and be saved all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else." Isa. 45:22. The everlasting God is the Savior, Ps. 78:56. Our spirits rejoice in God our Savior, Luke 1:46, 47. Twenty-nine times He is called the God of Jacob, meaning typically the Friend of sinners. He is not called the God of the virtuous Joseph. Seven times He is said to be the Mighty one of Jacob. He is called eight times the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, because He appeared unto them as the Malek Jehovah.

GOD'S FELLOW, Zech. 13:7

The word fellow is amith, meaning a near neighbor and intimate friend. The word tells us that our Lord is one with God the Father, as He Himself has also testified. He who saw Him saw the Father. He is most emphatically called God, Isa. 40:9; John 20:28; Rom. 9:5. And yet, God as the just judge called for the sword of vengeance against His Fellow. The good Shepherd was smitten on Calvary in order that the sheep who strayed away from Him might he saved, Isa. 53:6.

GRACE, Titus 2:11

Grace is ascribed to each Person of the Holy Trinity, but when the Apostle says, in Titus 2:11, that the grace of God has appeared, He is thinking of the Person of Christ who is the embodiment of all the grace of God. There was grace on the first page of the Bible and all through the Bible, but Christ inaugurated the reign of grace, Rom. 5:21, and the glory and wealth of grace, Eph. 1:6; 2:7; the time of grace, II Cor. 6:2, and the election of grace, Rom. 11:5, with the Word of grace which is able to build us up, Acts 13:43; 14:3; 20:24, 32. His Spirit is the Spirit of grace, Zech. 12:10; Heb. 10:29. By His grace He saves and keeps, glory to His name!

HAND or ARM

The word arm, zara, also means seed, issue, offspring. It is the same as the seed of the woman in the very first promise given. The arm is regarded as the offspring, the seed, of the body, growing out from the sides, like the branches grow out of a tree. Some want to translate it power in Isa. 53:1, but the meaning is here evidently power. Arm and offspring both stood for power in Israel. Our seed and the Dutch zaad are evidently descended from zara. The arm symbolizes the Savior. God led Israel out of Egypt by a stretched out and mighty arm. "Thou hast with thine arm redeemed thy people,"

Ps. 77:15. The Psalmists refer often to the right hand of Jehovah, 17:7; 18:35; 20:6; 44:3; 48:10; 78:54; 139:10. The right hand of the Lord is referred to about fifty times. Theologians are always ready to call this an anthropomorphism, but it is a reality of Him who took human hands from Mary. The name is expressive of His might and majesty. A careful study of this phrase can convince anyone that it stands for the Messiah and His mighty acts.

HEAD, Col. 2:19

Christ is not King but the governing Head of the Church, while He is the King of Israel. He is Head in a five-fold sense even as the first Adam was: a natural Head over all His seed; b conjugal Head, Eph. 5:23; c political Head over all principality and power, Col. 2:19; d federal Head, who judiciously stands publicly and representatively for all His own, Rom. 5:12-19; and e the governing Head of His own mystical Body, the Church. The head in the East is always the burden-bearer. All the marketable ware, and even geese and ducks are carried on the head, and similarly our glorious Head carries us with all our burdens. As surely as He has been our Sin-bearer on Calvary, so He is now our unfailing Burden-bearer day by day. Come, dear soul, sink yourselves with all your bag and burden upon Him.

HEIR, Matt. 21:28

This is the heir, they said, Mark 12:7; Luke 20:14. He inherited the whole world, Ps. 2. We are the fellow-heirs of Christ, Rom. 8:17, and of the believing Jews, Eph. 3:6. Israel at present is no heir, but they shall be heirs of salvation, Heb. 1:14. Abraham is called heir of the world, Rom. 4:13. Psalm 37 has six allusions to the heritage of the world by the meek of Israel, 9, 11, 18, 22, 29, 34. Our inheritance lies above the stars, all glory to His name. If you want to be rich, join by faith this great Heir, and with Him you will inherit all things.

HELP, Ps. 33:20

God laid help on one that is mighty, Ps. 89:19. In me is thy help, He says to restored Israel, Hos. 13:9. The Lord is my helper, I will not fear, Heb. 13:6. Christ's help is the help of His countenance, Ps. 42:5. He helped us out of the pit of sin and guilt, and He helps us on to glory. Omnipotent, He is mighty to help; omniscient, He knows our helpless estate; all-merciful, He is always willing to help the poor and needy; all-wise, He knows how to help the most helpless, when other helpers fail to succor them. Do you need help? Remember this wonderful name of our wonderful Lord and bear in mind that He does not want to share His help with any creature, be he angel, saint, sinner, or Satan.

HIGHWAY

The great Isaiah loves to use the word mesillah, highway. Of the great prophets Jeremiah uses it only once, 31:21, and of the minor prophets Joel alone has it, 2:8. The Psalmists use it only in Ps. 84:5, where it is translated ways, in Dutch better: gebaande wegen; but our prophet uses this beautiful word not less than ten times. A highway is first and most of all a high way and is thus rendered by two words in the very first place of its occurrence, Num. 20:19: "We will go up by the high way." These highways were made by casting up of the dirt as we see in the expression "cast up, cast up the high way" of 62: 10 and the promise of 49:11: "My highways shall be exalted." The value of such a high way was that it would not become inundated or even muddy. It would therefore be a safe way to travel in contradistinction to the natural cowpaths. No one seems to know what the special highway of 35:8 means. But blessed is the man in whose heart is such an highway for our God and Savior, for He loves to travel on the smooth and straight highway, Ps. 84:5. The word mesillah is significantly used here. Christ is the messillah to glory. "The way of the cross leads home."

HOLY ONE, Ps. 16:10; Acts 2:27, 31; Isa, 41:14; Mark 1:24

In the midst of this sinful world He stood alone as the Holy One, who could throw out the challenge: "Who convinces me of sin?" Even under the heart of Mary He was "that holy thing," Luke 1:35. It was not so that He was sinless but that He could sin. He was impeccable and could not sin as the Holy Son of God. If He could sin, then God could sin. His enemies and even the demons confessed His sinlessness.

HOPE, Titus 2:13

Christ is our Hope, Col. 1:27; Titus 1:1, 2. The coming of the King and Kingdom was Israel's hope, but He Himself is the Hope of the Church, and this Hope is described as purifying, I John 3:3; blessed or happy-making, Titus 2:13; good, II Thess. 2:16; heavenly, Col. 1:5 ; gladdening, Rom. 5:2-5; 12:12; sustaining, Rom. 4:18; Phil. 1:19, 20; I Thess. 5:8; working patience, I Thess. 1:3; Rom. 8:25. Without Him we are without hope in this world. This hope never makes ashamed. It is the polestar of the Church in her darkest periods. It is easy for the weary pilgrim to eat the bread of tears for a while, when he knows that Christ will soon appear in glory to take him to Himself. Then we hear the plodding pilgrim sing:

"Oh joy, oh delight, should we go without dying, no sickness, no sadness, no death, and no crying, caught up through the clouds to our Lord into glory when Jesus receives His own."

HORN OF SALVATION, Luke 1:69

Horns of cattle were used in Israel for holding oil, I Sam. 16:1; I Kings 1:39; and also as musical instruments, Jos. 6:4, 5; I Chr. 25:5, while illustratively they are used to describe as here the great power of Christ. As a bull crushes everything with its horns, so Christ shall throw down all His adversaries in the great day of His power. Sinner, you will be pulverized before Him. Hasten to flee the wrath to come and flee to Him now as the God of all grace who will take you in and never cast you out.

HUSBAND, Isa. 54:5

Israel is here portrayed as a lonely and abandoned woman, who is taken back by her husband and then is blessed with many children, who all know the Lord. The family tent, Palestine, becomes far too small for all the blessed offspring. Christ is never called the husband of the Church. This husband is the Redeemer and husband of Israel. Hos. 3 shows how He is waiting for His faithless wife.

I AM

On Peter's confession of Him as the Christ and the Son, our Lord said, I am. Not seven times in John, as often said, but eleven times. Christ used this expression, which a) identifies Him with Jehovah, and b) manifests His Divine self-consciousness.

I am He, John 4:26

I am the bread of life, 6:35

I am the light of the world, 8:12

I am the door, 10:7

I am the good shepherd, 10:11

I am the son of God, 10:36

I am the resurrection and the life. 11:25

I am your Lord and Master, 13:13

I am the way, the truth, and the life, 14:6

I am the true vine. 15:1

I am a king, 18:37

In Matt. 11:29 He said: "I am meek and lowly of heart," and: "Lo, I am with you alway," 28:20

In Revelation He uses it seven times:

I am alpha and omega, 1:8

I am the first and the last, 1:17

I am He that liveth and was dead. 1:18

I am alive for evermore. 1:18

I am He which searcheth the reins and hearts, 2:23

I am the root and the offspring of David, 22:16

I am the bright and morning star, 22:16.

"The Morningstar, with effulgence bright, shall shortly break on our raptured sight, and usher in the longed-for day."

IMAGE OF GOD, Col. 1:15

Christ is the image and glory of God, I Cor. 11:7 ; II Cor. 4:4; Col. 1:15; Heb. 1:3. In the last passage the word character is used for image, in the others the word ikon, still used in Russia and in all the Greek Catholic Church for the images in the church. Christ is the image of God in a twofold sense: essential and manifestative as the God-man, manifest in the flesh, I Tim. 3:16. As image of God the Son a) fully resembles; b) fully represents; and c) fully reveals God. Someone has beautifully explained the difference between the image of God in the Son and in the sons, the believers, as follows: "In Christ it is like Caesar's image in his son; in man it is like Caesar's image in his coin."

JACOB, Gen. 25:27

Jacob's name means crooked, and consequently in press and pulpit Jacob has been portrayed as a crook, but God judges differently from man. In Heb. 11 God counts him a faith-hero. There are but two men in the whole Old Testament that are called perfect, tam, and Jacob is one of them. The word plain in Gen. 25:27 is tam, perfect, straight like the palm tree, and Job is the other man who is called tam, Job 1:1. Job's friends say that God will not cast away a tam, but God has done that exactly on Calvary, when He made His perfect Son cry: "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

The bloodthirsty hate the tam, Prov. 29:10. Men shoot in secret at the tam, Ps. 64:4,5. The Bridegroom calls the bride tam in Cant. 5:2 and 6:9. Christ sees His own as perfect.

Mark the tam! Ps. 37:37.

Jacob was a marvelous shadow of our Lord prefiguring Him in his rejection, flight among the Gentiles, return and restoration, and even in his character of being tam, perfect, according to the Word of God, for we have a Savior who is tam, perfect.

JEHOVAH

If it can be proved that this name refers to Christ, then it is at the same time substantiated that He is found nearly seven thousand times in this name alone in the Old Testament, and we are happy to state that it can easily be proved that this richest of all names generally - there seem to be a few exceptions! - refers to our Lord Jesus Christ. Jehovah appeared to Abram, Gen. 17:1; Christ is the Almighty, Rev. 1:8.

Israel tempted the most high God, Ps. 28:56. They tempted Christ, says I Cor. 10:9. Jehovah is called Lord of lords, Deut. 10:17. Christ is called Lord of lords, I Tim. 6:15, 16; Rev. 17:14; 19:16. David set Jehovah always before him, Ps. 16:8. David said this of Christ, Acts 2:25. David committed his spirit into the hands of Jehovah, Ps. 31:5. Stephen committed his spirit into the hands of the Lord Jesus, Acts 7:59. Thy throne, O God is for ever and ever, Ps. 45:5. This is said of the Son, Heb. 1:8. Jehovah led captivity captive, Ps. 68:17, 18. Christ led captivity captive, Ezek. 4:7, 8. Jehovah stilled the raging sea, Ps. 89: 8, 9. Christ stilled the raging sea, Mark 4:39, 40. Jehovah laid the foundations of the earth, Ps. 102:24-27. The Son laid the foundations of the earth, Heb. 1:10-12. Jehovah searches the hearts, I Chr. 28:6. Christ says: "I am He which searcheth the hearts, Rev. 2:23. Jehovah made all things for Himself, Prov. 16:4. Christ made all things for Himself, Col. 1:16. Whom Jehovah loves, He corrects, Prov. 3:12. Christ does this, Rev. 3:19. Jehovah of hosts, holy, holy, holy, Isa. 6:3-5. Isaiah saw His glory and spake of Him, John 12:41. Jehovah is a stone of stumbling and a rock of offence, Isa. 8:13,14. Christ is a stone of stumbling and a rock of offence to them which stumble at the Word, I Peter 2:7,8. Unto us a child is born, Isa. 9:6, fulfilled in Luke 2:11. Prepare the way of Jehovah, Isa. 40:3. John prepared the way for Jesus, Matt. 3:3. Jehovah, thy Savior, Isa. 43:3, Jesus is the Savior. Behold, his reward is with Him; My reward is with Me, Rev. 22:12. Our Lord and Savior, II Peter 3:18. I am Jehovah, and besides Me there is no Savior, Isa. 43: 11. There is no other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved, Acts 4:12. Thus saith Jehovah, the King of Israel, and his Redeemer, Jehovah of hosts, I am the first and the last.

This last phrase is found nine times in II Chronicles and once in I Chr. 29:29. It is used of seven kings of Judah including David and Solomon. The phrase means to say that the whole biography, the whole life story of these kings has been given. When we compare this expression however with Isa. 41:4; 44:6; 48:12; then we see here that the godly kings, of whom alone this is said, were a type and emblem of Him who calls Himself in Isaiah and Revelation the First and the Last. Every anointed king of Judah foreshadowed Him of whom the whole Bible is the biography.

Jehovah is the true God, He is the living God, Jer. 10:10. This is the true God and eternal life, I John 5:20. Jehovah fills heaven and earth, Jer. 23:24. Christ fills all in all, Eph. 1:23. Thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, - out of thee shall conic forth unto me that is to be ruler in Israel, Mic. 5:2; fulfilled in Matt. 2:6. They shall look upon Me (Jehovah) whom they have pierced, Zech. 12:10. They shall look on Him (Christ) whom they have pierced, John 19:38.

We see also that the Malek Jehovah cannot be the Father, for He is sent, and the Father is never sent; and throughout He speaks as Jehovah, whenever He appeared to man. Moses suffered the reproach of Jehovah: he is said to have suffered the reproach of Christ, Heb. 11:24-26.

Jehovah our righteousness, Jer. 23:5,6; 33:16. Christ became our righteousness, I Cor. 1:31.

The name Jehovah, being incommunicable, is never found ill the plural, and i; never applied to any mortal, but its abbreviated form Jah is found in many theophorous names. Part of this rich name is found in about 300 proper names. Further, there are many combinations with the name Jehovah as Jehovah-Roi, Jehovah-Shalom, Jehovah-Jireh, Jehovah-Rophi, Jehovah-M'Kodesh, Jehovah-Tsidkenu, Jehovah-Shammach, etc., which generally also speak of the Lord Jesus Christ in one way or another. which we want to illustrate in the name Jehovah-Nissi, the Lord my banner, Ex. 17:15 and Jehovah-

Penah, Lord look upon us. The combined form of Jehovah-Sabaoth appears by far the oftenest.

JEHOVAH-NISSI, Ex. 17:15

The Lord my nes, banner. It is the same word as the pole upon which the brazen serpent was put, and that according to our Lord's own testimony foreshadowed the cross upon which He was to be hanged. The original idea of the word nes was a pole put upon some hill for a sign or ensign. Isaiah uses the word oftener than all other writers combined and practically always in a prophetic Messianic sense as we can see for ourselves in the following passages:

He will lift up an ensign, 5:25

He shall stand for an ensign, 11:10

He shall set up all ensign, 11:12

Lift ye up a banner, 13:2

When He lifteth up all ensign, 18:3

As an ensign on an hill, 30:17

His princes shall be afraid of the ensign, 31:9

They could not spread the sail, 33:23

Set up a standard for the people, 49:22

Lift up a standard for the people, 62:10.

In 30:17 the pole on the hill clearly silhouettes against the sky and furnishes us a faint picture of Calvary's hill and the pole there put up. Jeremiah uses the word in 4:6,21; 50:2; 51:12, 27. Dear reader, have you lifted up the blood-stained banner of the cross?

JEHOVAH PENAH, Lord Look Upon Us

It is claimed by some scholars as Serle that the To paean of the Greeks, meaning a praise to Jupiter is only a corrupt form of Jehovah penah, Lord look on us. The name Jehovah certainly entered the Greek language and appeared there in various forms. In fact scholars today are by no means agreed as to the exact form of this, to the Jews, ineffable name. It is now generally agreed that Jupiter was only a corruption of Jehovah, Jova-Pater, i.e. Jehovah is father, the main god of the Romans.

When Paul had his thorn in the flesh, he besought the Lord Jesus thrice. The above word says that Jehovah is the object of prayer, Paul's example and that of all the early saints show that Christ is also the object of prayer. Paul wrote to the Corinthian saints with all that in every place "call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord," I Cor. 1:2. "Whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved," Rom. 10:13.

JESUS

This is the most loved name of our Savior. Standing alone, it is however mainly His name on the other side of Calvary and the resurrection. The Je in Jesus is the same as the Je in Jehovah. The name Jesus literally means: Jehovah rescues from the greatest danger and sets in the greatest place of safety. He rescues from hell to heaven. In the Acts and Epistles Jesus alone occurs sixty-five times, twenty-nine of which are in Acts, whereas Christ occurs there 265 times. The term in Jesus found so much in sermons and in devotional literature is not once found in the Greek. The "sleep in Jesus" of I Thess. 4:12 is "sleep through Jesus." He is called twenty times Jesus of Nazareth. Hymnologists use this sweet name oftener than any other name of our wonderful Lord and Savior. It is for us most proper to use His resurrection name Lord.

JUDGE

In the Old Testament God is always the judge. "God is Judge Himself," Ps. 50:1-6; 9:4; 7:11; Gen. 18:25; but in the New Testament Christ emphatically taught that all judgment was entrusted to Him and this is the teaching throughout. John 5:22-27; Acts 10:42; 17:31; II Tim. 4:1, 8: Rom. 2:16; 14:10; I Cor. 4:3; 16:22; I Peter 4:7. If God is the judge of all the earth and Christ does all the judging, then we have here an irrefutable proof for His Deity. O my dear soul, contemplate the sovereign might of our Savior; there is no judgment for those who are in Him.

JUST ONE, Acts 7:52

This was Stephen's testimony to our Lord. Among all the unjust of earth He stands alone as the only just One. Stephen paid with his life for his testimony. Peter calls Him also the Just who took the place of the unjust at Calvary, I Peter 3:18. Before the Sanhedrin he also called Christ the Just, Acts 3:14, and James meant Christ also when he accused the Jews of having killed the Just, Jas. 5:6. The merited righteousness of this just One has been imputed to all believers.

KING

The idea of Kingship looms large in all the Word and is implied in the protevangelium, the first promise ever given. The dying patriarch Jacob had a King before his mind when he spoke of Shiloh, the lawgiver and rest-giver. In the first pean of praise. Moses sang, "The Lord shall reign forever and ere," Ex. 15:18. Balaam saw farflung visions of a scepter, Num. 24:17 and so all through the Prophets, Isa. 9:6; 32:1-4; Jer. 23:6; Dan. 9:25; Mic. 5:2; Zech. 6:12,13; 9:9. The Psalms are jubilant about the great King of glory. Three things were always characterizing this King: a) He would be God; b) He would be first and must King over His people Israel, and c) He would then become the King over all nations. In Ps. 67 this order is beautifully given. In the New Testament Christ was a) born as the King of the Jews; b) Confessed by Nathanael as King of the Jews, John 1:49; c) acclaimed by the populace as the King of Israel, 12:13; d) self-confessed King of Israel before Pilate in Matthew, Mark, Luke, John; e) proclaimed in three languages on the cross as the King of the Jews; f) raised as the seed of David, or King of Israel, II Tim. 2:8; g) returning as the offspring of David i.e. King of Israel, Rev. 22:12-22; and we know that He is the God of Israel as well as the King of Israel. He is at this time and in this age of grace the governing Head of the Church through His Word and Spirit. In the great day of His coming and reign He will rule the nations as King of kings, I Tim. 6:15 ; Rev. 17:14.

LAMB

John uses this as a favorite term for his Lord. In fact he calls Him fondly with the endearing term amion, lambkin, not less than twenty-nine times in Revelation. The word amnos lamb is only used in John 1:29, 36; Acts 8:32; I Peter 1:19. Where is the lamb for the burnt offering, asked Isaac, and the New Testament answers this question. Abel's lamb, the Paschal lamb, the redeeming lamb, Ex. 13:13, and the lamb of the daily morning and evening sacrifice, all foreshadowed the blessed Lamb of Calvary. In heaven the song of Moses and the Lambkin will still be sung by those who have been redeemed and purified by His blood. Will you sing in that celestial chorus?

LAWGIVER, Isa 33:22

Five names are given in this one verse to our Savior: Jehovah (Lord), Judge, King, Savior, and Lawgiver. The fact that the name Lord is repeated thrice suggests that this is said of our Lord as representing the fulness of the triune God. This word Lawgiver however has no reference to the giving of the law on Horeb but to the giving of the new law to the nations in the day of His rule as also taught in Isa. 2:1-6; Mic. 4:1-5. When He rules as King and Judge He will be also the universal Lawgiver for all the nations. The lawless world of our day badly needs this illustrious Lawgiver, and judged by the many significant phenomena of our day, He will not tarry much longer. The Church, Israel and all the nations need Him more than ever before.

LEADER, Isa. 55:4

The word nagid means one that pushes things. It is rendered captain, ruler, prince, chief governor, noble, and even excellent things. All that and much more our Lord will be in the day of His rule. He will not only be a Leader in name but in reality. He will lead the world from darkness to light, from death to life, from hate to love, from bondage to liberty, from poverty to plenty. We often hear it said, "the world needs a good leader." Correct, but the only good leader was crucified, and the world does not want Him. However, soon He will come and with holy force take the reigns of the world's government upon His shoulder, and He then will put His enemies under His feet, making them the footstool under His feet. A good leader, yes, but no one can rule the world wisely and well unless He is Allwise and Almighty. Our mighty Savior alone can be the safe Leader of this rebellious world, and He will soon appear to take that Leadership which the present leaders of the nations refuse to give Him.

LIFE

Whoso findeth me findeth life, Prov. 8:35. Not less than five times the word find occurs in this grand Messianic chapter, 9, 12, 17, 35. The verb maza, to find, occurs approximately 500 times. Before God fully revealed Himself as "he seeking Savior in Christ, He was to he sought after by Israel. According to Rom. 3 there is now no one that seeketh after God, in spite of the Seekers after God of Farrar. That cannot he, if it is true that the sinner is dead in trespasses and sins, because a corpse cannot seek. But Israel under the law was not generally regarded as dead in sin, and they were exhorted time and again to seek the Lord while l Te might be found. In verse 17 He says that those who seek Him early shall find Him, and now the assurance is given that those who do find Him find life. With added light we know that life is in the Son, and if by faith we are incorporated in Him, then we are possessors of a life that can never die. "When Christ who is our life shall appear then also ye shall appear with Him in glory," Col. 3:4.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD, John 8:12

The Psalmists and the Prophets have always spoken of God as the Light. He is the Father of light, Jas. 1:17, the Fountain of light, the source of all natural, intellectual, moral, metaphysical, and spiritual light. Nature's light has three different kinds of rays so the scientists tell us: the luminous, which can be seen and felt, the caloric, which can only be felt, and the actinic, which can neither been seen nor felt, but are the strongest and healing if wisely directed, killing if unwisely used. Our Savior illumines, warms, heals. His Word is light, Prov. 6:23; Ps. 119:105,130; II Peter 1:29; and His people are a light, Matt. 5:14; Phil. 2:15, 16; I Thes. 5:5. His light is the light of life, John 8:12, and by His grace we are the inheritors of the saints in light. The Lamb is the light of the city of God, Rev. 21:23. The world will soon see a great light, Isa. 60:1-4. Once we were darkness, but now we are light in the Lord, let us now then walk as children of light, Eph. 5:8.

LION, Rev. 5:5

The Lamb is also a Lion. In the first coming to His people and to poor sinburdened souls that flee to Him for refuge He is the meek and lowly Lamb, but to those that reject Him He is the Lion to crush all opposition and to devour all His and our adversaries. It is the Lion that breaks the seals. All Christians should have something of the lamb and lion in their make-up. The day is evidently drawing near that the Lamb of this age of grace will manifest Himself to Israel and the world as the roaring, rending Lion of the tribe of Judah. Since the holy land was once infested by Lions, the Word of God speaks much of the king of beasts and generally with an allusion to our mighty Redeemer, Isa. 31:4 ; 38:13; Lam. 3:10; Hos. 5:14; 13:8; Rev. 5:5. My dear one, if you flee to the Lamb of God that takes away the sin of the world, you need not dread this Lion for then you are the honey in the lion of Samson, Jud. 14:8.

LORD

The English name Lord means the keeper of the loaf of bread. The name Jehovah, used about seven thousand times is always rendered in the Septuagint by Kyrios, Lord. The name Jah is also expressive of God's incommunicable essence but in His relation to man, and the name Eljeh occurring only in Ex. 3:14 also, meaning: who ̆will he, and is therefore carrying the idea of futurity. Jah looks at His Being as the Present One, Ehjeh as the Coming One, and Jehovah, which some regard as a threefold repetition of Jah, as the one that was, is, and is to come and ever shall be, and who is always the same in all His Word and Work to His own. It is especially through the resurrection that Christ earned the title of Lord as God-Man. Believers who ordinarily speak of Him as Jesus evidently do not understand this. In regard to His coming to judge He is called 260 times Lord of hosts, only twice in the New Testament, Rom. 9:29; Jas. 5:4. He is Lord of all, Acts 10:36.

MAN, I Tim. 2:5

Our Lord is demeaned by many that rob Him of His Deity. His humanity is more widely accepted than His Deity, but a new Gnosticism has arisen of late that also denies His true humanity; we must cling to the double or threefold mystery that He is true God, real man, and really God and man in one adorable Personality. Man had sinned, and He came to take man's place as sinner and to carry in His own body our sins upon the tree. Let us say with the Samaritan woman "Come, see a man - is not this the Christ ?"

MASTER, Matt. 23:8

Christ is the real and only Master. He is the Master of the house that shall rise up some day from His present seat in glory, Luke 13:25. He said: "Ye call me Master and Lord, and well ye may for so I am," John 13:13. The disciples generally addressed Him thus before His death and resurrection, but after that it is not so proper to address Him as Master, as so many do. If the authority of even earthly masters is fully established, how much more shall this he true of this grand Master, Eph. 6:5-9; Col. 3:22-25; 4:1; I Peter 2:18. This Master wants no crouching slaves, hirelings, eye-servants, men-pleasers, but faithful love-slaves, who are freely, voluntarily, and heartily toiling for Him in love, knowing that their labor is not in vain in the Lord.

MEDIATOR, I Tim. 2:5

The idea of a mediator, or go-between in reference to two parties, is an Oriental idea par excellence. They have middle-men for traffic, marriage, love-matches, peacemaking, and for many other things. Even in the present East no business of any importance can be transacted without some sort of mediator. Abraham did not go directly to Ephron the Hittite, but he got some of the Hittites to entreat for him to Ephron. God had a great business to transact between heaven and earth and He used Christ as the great Go-between. Moses was the mediator of law, Christ is the Mediator of grace, of reconciliation, of intercession, and by and by He will be forever the Mediator of union and communion between God and man.

MESSENGER OF THE COVENANT, Mal. 3:1

The word for messenger is the same as Angel, Malek, the same as the Angel of God's presence, or face, Isa. 63:9. God made His beloved Son a servant and messenger, and He sent Him with a message of love into this wicked world. In order to fully prove His love, our blessed Savior gave Himself up to the shameful, painful death of the cross. Where could ever greater proof of His love have been shown than on Calvary? Surely, this Messenger was wonderful in His mission of love. What has been your reaction to this amazing love ?

"Love so amazing, so divine, Demands our soul, our life, our all."

MESSIAH

This official title of Christ comes from the Hebrew verb masshah, to rub, to anoint with oil. It is the same as chrism and christ in the Greek. This simple Hebrew verb, to rub, to anoint with oil, has given us names such as Messias, Messiahship, Messianic, Messianity, Messianism, a Messiah. Hannah in her song of praise was the first to use the word anointed in reference to the coming King. Many folk would be disappointed if we told them that the idea of the Messiah is found but rarely in the Old Testament, and of the few times it is found, it is also applied to the heathen king Cyrus the Great. Many think that our Lord has three offices but He has one three-fold office. The holy oil was not applied to Him but the antitypical oil, the Holy Spirit. Believers are called christians three times, because they have His chrisma. His anointing. Our anointing, like the one of old, may never he counterfeited or imitated, Ex. 30:32. The typical oil was never put on strangers, Ex. 30:33. In the day of Ezekiel the Jews were condemned for imitating this precious ointment, Ezek. 23:41. There are today more imitators of the antitypical oil than there are counterfeiters of Uncle Sam's money.

MIGHTY GOD, Isa. 9:7

The word mighty is gibbor, which conveys not only the idea of power, but of heroic, conquering power, a power that prevails over the foes. Our Christ was even in the day of His weakness so mighty that His captors fell like dead men before Him, and He raised the dead, walked on the billows, and stilled the storm. He is God's great Hero to subdue a rebellious world, rescue the perishing, conquer Satan, and defeat hell. Nothing is too hard and to wonderful for our almighty Savior.

MIGHTY ONE OF JACOB, Isa. 60:16

We find this name seven times, while the name God of Jacob is given Him twenty-one times more. He is the same as the Angel who wrestled with Jacob and was overcome by Jacob at Pniel. Think of it, the worm Jacob overcame the Mighty One of Jacob. The almighty Conqueror loves to he beaten by His little worms oil earth, through faith. There lies in this rich and precious name an allusion to that noteworthy fact of Pniel. He is not the Mighty One of Nimrod, but of Jacob.

MORNINGSTAR, Rev. 22:16

Christ announces Himself here as the offspring of David, i.e. the King of Israel, in relation to His ancient people, and as the Morningstar, which evidently declares His future relation to the Church. Prior to His rise as the Sun of righteousness with healing in His wings for Israel, He shall shine as the bright star for the Church. The morningstar heralds two facts: a that the night is past, and b that the day is breaking. The night is even now far spent and the day is at hand. Turn your eye, O Christian, to this bright and glorious Morningstar.

MOST HIGH

This title appears thirty-seven times in the Old Testament. It occurs twenty-one times in the Psalms, eight times in Daniel. It seems to be especially His title in regard to the heathen, for Melchizedek, Gen. 14:18-22; Balaam, Numbers 24:16; Nebuchadnezzar, Daniel 4:17, 34, and the King of Babylon, Isa. 14:14, use it. In the New Testament we find this translation of El Elyon five times, in Mark 5:7; Luke 8:28; Acts 2:48; 16:17; Heb. 7:1. He was once the lowly Jesus.

NAIL, Isa. 22:23

We must think here not of an iron nail, but of the large wooden pin in the tent upon which all the pots and pails are hanging in the Bedouin tents today. All the glory of His Father's house is hung upon this nail. The figure then speaks of dependence, fixedness, certainty, security, in contrast to the selfish and unreliable Shebna. "Hangs my helpless soul on Thee."

NAME

Shem, Gen. 9:26, means "name." In Ex. 23:20-22 God says of the Angel: "My name, Shem, is in Him." The Jews always applied the name "Shem" to Deity. Christ came to make known His Father's "Shem," name. In conformity to the formula of James 4:15, the pious Jew will say when announcing a plan to go somewhere: "Im Yirtze ha Shem" i.e. "If the Shem will." The Messiah is often just called the Shem by them. We thoughtlessly say: "What's in a name?" but God's essence, God's Being is in the Shem. In other words, Christ our Lord is the real Shem, name of God. In the scroll of the Book is written of Him. He is in all the names of God. He is the name, The "Shem." He has a name above every name. Phil. 2:10. His name is a strong tower and the believers have run into it for shelter and safety.

NAZARENE, Matt. 2:23

Our Lord is also the antitypical Nazarite, for He was separate from sinners even while He ate with them; but this word has nothing to do with His perfect Nazariteship, but with the fact that He lived for thirty years in the little mountain town of Nazareth, which lies like a great eagles-nest upon the top of the mountains. The word comes evidently from the Hebrew nezer, sprout, and there the Savior sprouted into childhood and perfect young manhood. This is the name of His humiliation in Israel, and He took the name and is not ashamed of it even in heaven for when He saved Saul and Saul asked: "Who art thou, Lord?" He answered "I am Jesus of Nazareth." Many who get high up in life are ashamed of the humble surroundings of their childhood, but not so our adorable Lord. He knew and confessed that He as the nezer, sprout, had sprouted in Nazareth, sprout-town. "There is not a friend like the lowly Jesus, no, not one."

OFFENCE

The wicked find Him an offence. Their pride is offended at the lowliness of His first coming, Isa. 53:1-3; Matt. 13:54, 57; Isa. 8:14; Rom. 9:33; I Peter 3:8 : John 6:58-61. Especially His cross is the greatest offence, I Cor. 1:23; Gal. 5:11. Blessed are all those that are not offended at Him, Matt. 11:6; John 16:1. Not only the whole nation of Israel but also the leaders in Christendom regard the crucified, living, coming Christ an offence. The world is ever ready to pay homage to the historical Jesus but at the expense of His cross and His coming. However, while the modern sages and savages are offended at our crucified Lord, we cannot find words to glorify Him sufficiently, because we know His ineffable preciousness and we sing with reference to Him:

Ill that He blesses is our good,

And unblest good is ill;

And all is right that seems most wrong,

If it be His sweet will.

OFFSPRING OF DAVID, Rev. 22:16

Enthroned in glory on the Father's right hand, He is not ashamed of springing from the once despised and hunted shepherd David. As God He is the root of David, who brought forth David, and as man He is descended from David, both through Mary and through His stepfather Joseph. David is not yet known by the Church of Christ. As a rule they see in him only an historical person, but he is also a prophetic person, because the Prophetic Word mentions him time and again in connection with the future world-rule of Christ, Jer. 30:9; Ezek. 34:23; Hos. 3:5. He once prayed in Ps. 27 that he might ever dwell in the house of the Lord. This holy prayer shall be answered fully in the millennial ages, when David will always rule as the great Priest-King in behalf of Christ on the earth, believe it or not.

ONLY-BEGOTTEN, John 1:14

Christ is First-begotten and First-born in regard to the creatures, but He is the Only-begotten in His essential relation to the Father. This word monogenes is used of only children in Luke 7:12; 8:42; 9:38; Heb. 11:17, while John alone applies it five times to the Son of God, John 1:14, 18; 3:16, 18; I John 4:9. In all, then, this word is used only nine times. God has many sons, but He has only one unique Son who bears His complete image and is co-equal, co-essential, co-substantial with Him, very God of very God forever.

PASSOVER, I Cor. 5:7

Time and again it is called the passover of the Lord, or unto the Lord. The Bible puts especially six great passovers before us in the Old Testament:

The passover at its institution, Ex. 12.

The passover at the entrance of the land, Jos. 5:10, 11.

The passover of Hezekiah, II Chron. 30.

The passover of Josiah, II Chron. 35.

The passover of the returned exiles, Ezra 6:19, 20.

The passover of Ezek. 45:21. This latter is future, and there is then no passover lamb, since the antitypical Lamb is then present. The real Passover is not a mere rite, but the Redeemer. The word pesach gave us Pasch, paschal, ante-paschal, paschal taper, paschal candle, paschal lamb, paschal controversy, paschal customs. The very word pass itself may have its far origin in the Hebrew verb pesach, to pass. The Hebrew for lame is pisseach, one that halts past as a cripple. The word has however been taken in a wrong sense. The general thought is that the meaning is simply to pass by, but in this case it means pass over, i.e. the word has the secondary, if not the primary thought of overshadowing, protecting, safe-guarding. While judgment and screams of anguish and bereavement were upon Egypt, and many hearts in Israel must have trembled in fear, the Lord protectingly overshadowed His people. Here was a great difference between Egypt and Israel, but it was not a difference in nature but one of grace. The blood made all the difference.

PEACE, Eph. 2:14-17

Three grand things are said in Ephesians 2:14-17: a He is our peace; b He made peace; c He preached peace. He is our Jehovah-Shalom, Judges 6: 24. He is the Prince of Peace, Isa. 9:6, who even now speaks peace to His saints, and will soon say to the boisterous sea of nations: Peace, be still! Micah 5:5, Zech. 6:13; 9:10, and then there will he a great calm in all the world. Our Lord never said: peace be unto you, until after His resurrection, John 20:19, 21, 26. The real peace is based upon His blood. With a view to that blood He did say twice to penitents: Go in peace, Mark 5:34; Luke 7:50. Paul designated God six times as the God of peace, Rom. 15:33; 16:20: II Cor. 13:11; Phil. 4:9; I Thess. 5:23; Heb. 13:20. There is a peace of justification and all believers have this peace with God, Rom. 5:1; but there is also a peace of sanctification, Phil. 4:7, and all too few believers seem to enjoy this. Do you enjoy this latter peace, dear reader?

PEACE OFFERING

All offerings point to our Christ. The name of this offering is shelem, relative to Solomon. The word means also to finish.

When there is peace there is a finish to war and strife. When there is peace there is a perfect condition, hence the word also means to perfect. When there is peace there is a restoration to amity and friendship, hence it also signifies restoration. Again, when peace is made amende honorable is often made and so we find that this word also means to make amends. Finally, when peace has come, the joy of many is filled full and thus it happens that the word also means make full. The Hebrew would collect many kindred thoughts from one verb. Meanwhile the peace-offering presented typically and strikingly the peace made through Christ our precious Savior.

PHYSICIAN

He knows every symptom and every malady of our ailing world, and the day is fast approaching that no inhabitant shall say: I am sick, Isa. 33:24. Even the leaves of the tree of life shall be for the healing of the nations, Rev. 22:2. He heals the broken hearted, and even our backslidings, Ps. 147:3; Jer. 33:6; Hos. 14:4. The Body of Christ has no promise for this age that He will heal all our physical ailments. This is not the age for divine healing, but the age for all-sufficient grace to hear every trial and trouble. It is not proper to address Christ now as Physician, since it is a name that belongs to His ministry of the circumcision, Rom. 15:8, and to His future reign of peace, when He shall heal the ills of the world.

PLANT OF RENOWN

Mentioned in Ezekiel 34:29. This is one of the beautiful prophetic and poetic names of our Lord. God speaks in this context of the showers of blessings that will descend upon Israel restored in its land. All the earth is then fruitful and yields more than bumper crops, as we love to call rich harvests. With all the prosperity and plenty Antisemitism is also forever dead and famines do not drag thousands to the grave. What is the cause of all this wealth and peace? The Plant of Renown.

POTENTATE, I Tim. 6:15

Potentate means a powerful ruler, an absolute monarch, who has absolute sway over the life and death of all his subjects. The Oriental potentates generally abused their power and became oppressive tyrants, but our blessed Lord never abuses His power but uses it all for our good, Rom. 8:28. In the day of His power He shall destroy all tyrants and establish His own beneficent sway in His glorious realm of peace from pole to pole and He will girdle the whole earth with His glory and majesty, and in that glorious day we shall share all His glory and majesty world without end.

PRIEST, Heb. 3:1

It is a remarkable fact that nor the Gospels nor Paul even speak of Him as Priest. He was not a priest after the order of Aaron, but of Melchizedek, who has a priesthood of blessing for Abraham and his seed. He never functioned as Aaronitic priest. The Epistle to the Hebrews deals especially with the Melchizedekian priesthood of Christ. This is in fact the only Epistle that calls Him Priest. Like His Prophethood and Kingship, His Priesthood has also mainly reference to the nation of Israel. In Eph. 5:1, 2 Paul alludes to His priestly sacrifice. The main priestly work of Christ still lies in the future in so far as the earth is concerned. Hebrews mentions fifteen times His heavenly priesthood. Gentle reader, this Priest is able to be touched with the feelings of our infirmity.

PRINCE OF PEACE, Isa. 9:6; Acts 3:15; Rev. 1:5

He is also the Prince of princes, Dan. 8:25. A prince is needed to stand against the prince of this world, Satan. This princely Prince guarantees perfect peace upon the earth, a peace that will he based not upon force, but upon righteousness. The world is hankering for peace but they will never get it until they acknowledge the basis of peace, the manifested righteousness of the cross, and the Prince of peace Himself. He will make wars to cease unto the end of the earth, Ps. 46:9, and He will make a lasting peace among all the nations of the earth, Isa. 11.

PROPHET, Deut. 18:15

Every true prophet foreshadowed the great Prophet. A prophet goes from God to make God's will known to man whilst a priest goes from man to approach God with man's needs and sins. Christ has performed all the three great functions of a Prophet: a Teach God's will; b predict God's will for the future; and c perform miracles to seal and verify His Word. Israel was ready to accept Him as a Prophet, but not as God. This is Israel's stand in regard to Him today, and the world at large agrees in this matter with Israel. This Prophet is our Lord and Teacher to whom we pray:

"Teach me, dear Lord, to find the latent good

That sorrow yields, when rightly understood."

PROPITIATION, 1 John 2:2

For four thousand years the sin question had been the foremost question of the world. Christ bore as the Lamb of God the central, Adamic, sin of the world away. His blood was the propitiation and reconciliation, Rom. 3:25. God had been forbearing sin for four millenniums. God's wrath against our sin has rolled away for the believers as well as our guilt. Even Israel could sing:

"As far as the East is from the West, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us," Ps. 103:12.

RACHEL, Gen. 30:1, 2

Rachel means "ewe" or "female sheep." In Gen. 31:38 we read of "thy ewes, Rachel, and thy she-goats." The patriarch had two hundred ewes, Rachels. Thy teeth are as a flock of sheep, Rachels, Cant. 6:6. We read in Isa. 53:7 of our Savior that he was dumb as a Rachel before her shearers. Hence we can glorify our Savior as the Rachel. The wife of Jacob was the Rachel who loudly wept for her children and who would not be comforted, but Christ, the real "Rachel," was dumb when the whole world pounced upon Him. The name of Rachel has been immortalized not only in many names of Jewish women, but in the names of many Gentile girl; as well. But Rachel was far from a noble character: jealous, grumpy, moping, scheming, thieving, and unwilling to be comforted in her death. She is the exact contrast to the Rachel that was dumb before the shearers and a type of Israel that greatly laments and mourns because of its sin. The patriarch Jacob lost his patience with her. She was like a beautiful flower without fragrance, but by His grace we can spread daily the fragrance of the Rose of Sharon and the Lily of the Valley. He is God's only ewe lamb, and evil men have taken Him and killed Him.

RANSOM, I Tim. 2:6

The English word redemption is not a contraction of the Latin redemptionem but comes from the Hebrew ratson. The first letter to Timothy is personal and pastoral in character. Paul describes the qualifications of the ruling and teaching elders and the mutual duties of pastor and people, but everything cycles around our blessed Redeemer and His ransom. Faith is stressed not less than nineteen times; and godliness nine times while he has three of the faithful sayings. Since Christ Himself in His self-sacrifice on Calvary was the great ransom-price, He can he fully identified with the ransom, as the Apostle here has done.

REDEEMER, Job 19:25; Isa. 59:20; 60:16

Isaiah spoke some glorious thing about Jehovah-Jesus, our Redeemer. The word is generally Goel. The word always included three ideas: a The Goel had to be of kith and kin, of the same blood relationship; b he had to buy one out of trouble; or c he had to avenge the blood of the innocent. Our Lord has fulfilled all the conditions of the Goel. Redeemer literally means one that has bought hack something or someone. We were kidnapped by sin and the devil, but He came, bought, and set us free, so that we can never be kidnapped again. The ransom He paid did not go to the kidnapper but to the just judge of the universe.

REFUGE, Heb. 6:18

The Psalmists sang time and again of God as the Refuge. There were several typical places of refuge such as the six cities of refuge and the seventh place of refuge was the altar with its horns, Ex. 21:13, 14. Five times the Psalms speak of God's wings as a place of refuge, 17:8; 36:7; 57:1; 91:1. In Heb. 6:18 we find that Christ is the anti-typical and real refuge for His own. The gate of this refuge is ever open, day and night, and none is refused entrance. In Him alone is a safe shelter for the storms of Judgment that are coming. Awful storms are coming, dear sinner friend, hasten to find refuge in Him who is the only refuge for a poor, lost, undone, hell and doom deserving sinner.

RESURRECTION, John 11:25

This is one of the deepest and most glorious truths of the Word, typified in the lives of Noah, Isaac, Joseph, Samson, Jeremiah, Jonah, Daniel, and others. Christ foretold His own resurrection ten times, Matt. 20:19; Mark 8:3; 9:9, 31; 10:34; 14:28; Luke 18:33: John 2:19; 10:18. This great act is twenty-one times ascribed to the Father, twice to His own power, and once to the Holy Spirit. In the great Epistle to the Romans it is eight times mentioned. The Exodus, mentioned 400 times, was God's standard of strength for His own of old, but now the raising of Christ is His standard for us. The Spirit is the firstfruits of the resurrection, but Christ in reality is the resurrection, John 11:25. May we know Him in the power of His resurrection!

RIGHTEOUSNESS, II Cor. 5:21

The Lord is our righteousness. If anciently Abel, Noah, Abraham, Phineas are called righteous, then this is because to them were imputed the Christ and His righteousness. To this end the Sinless was made sin for us. All the ancient worthies were justified with an eye to Calvary and upon the credit of His merited righteousness. In the Lord alone is our righteousness and strength, Isa. 45:24; Phil. 3:9. On the cross He gave full satisfaction to all of God's holy demands and He met at the same time all our needs as sinners, so that He is now become our wisdom, righteousness, sanctification, and redemption, I Cor. 1:30.

ROCK, I Cor. 10:4

This was a favorite figure with David and the other singers of Israel. A rock was in the desert a place of rest, shadow, shelter, safety, security, drink, refreshment, and Christ is all this and much more to His own in the desert of life. We know that the Rock in the desert was Christ, I Cor. 10:4. The Rock also speaks of durability, immutability, and invincibility. Christ is the Rock of Ages cleft for us at Calvary. He is the Rock of our salvation, II Sam. 22:47. Let us hide in this Rock which God has given us for safety and shelter.

ROD, Isa. 11:1

A rod is only a stick, a life cut off. A rod from the stem of Jesse, a shepherd in little Bethlehem, how low He stooped to seek and find us. In His judgment He is the iron rod, and in His reign the golden rod of glory. Weary pilgrim, traveling through the howling wastes of this world, lean heavily upon this Rod.

ROOT OF JESSE, Isa. 11:10; Rev. 22:16

This also denotes His humanity and lowly origin. On the last page just before the close of the Holy Book, He calls Himself the root of David, to signify thereby His real human nature not only, but also His Deity at the same time, for He did not only spring from David as real man, but He also as God produced David, the sweet singer of Israel, who sang so much about Him and yearned to see perpetually His beauty in His house. That He from heaven and on the last page of this Book should still refer to Himself as the root of David is so significant that we may well ponder it deeply.

ROSE, Cant. 2:1

What Martha said of her dead and buried brother: he stinketh, can safely be said of this sinful world. It reeks with sin and shame, but the sweet scent of this rose diffused through many parts of this world keeps this world an habitable place. This Rose was crushed on Calvary to spread its fragrance all the more.

RULER OF ISRAEL, Micah 5:2

As such He was announced in the Psalms and the Prophets and in all the Old Testament. After He was born and rejected as the King of the Jews, the disciples asked Him in Acts 1:6: "Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom of Israel?" and His answer as to the times and seasons shows that they were correct, because what never comes will have no times and seasons. It is regrettable beyond words that this carnal point is not believed and grasped by the church at large. They generally think that the church is the kingdom or that she at least has to bring in the kingdom and both notions are Scripturally incorrect. He will rule in Israel.

SALVATION

When aged Simeon held the little baby in his arms, he praised God for having seen His Salvation. Like wisdom, grace, peace, and righteousness, salvation is in its final analysis a person and not a thing. Isaiah, the great Evangelist of the Old Testament, has several times personified salvation, or rather, personalized it. Salvation is deliverance, in body and soul, from the presence of sin. The cross settled the past penalty, the Holy Spirit and the indwelling Christ counterbalance the indwelling power of sin, while the coming of the Lord shall remove the very presence of sin, and then with the resurrected body our salvation will be complete, and we shall fully realize that the quondam Babe of Bethlehem is our Salvation.

SANCTIFICATION, I Cor. 1:31, 32

As surely as the righteousness of Christ has been imputed to us so certainly has His sanctification been put on our account. Most people think that the righteousness is imputed, and that the sanctification is worked out by our own efforts, but Christ is our sanctification in the same forensic, judicial sense as He is our righteousness. However, this does not remove the fact that there is a practical, progressive, and perennial sanctification, by which we daily separate from all things that displease Him and yield ourselves fully to Him and His service.

SANCTUARY

Sanctuary means a holy place of worship, and it is here said that Jehovah Himself shall be the sanctuary of the little remnant like Isaiah and his people. There would be joy, song, prayer, praise, worship, and adoration in Him as well as to and for Him. The outer sanctuary might be broken by cruel hands in ruins, but the faithful remnant would have a sanctuary nevertheless. The temple has been in ruins for nearly nineteen centuries, but Jehovah-Jesus is also now our blessed Sanctuary, our mikdash. This is also the word that is used of Ezekiel's temple seventeen times. While He is in this age of grace still a stone of stumbling and a rock of offence to both houses of Israel, we dwell in Christ as our Sanctuary, and we find it very cozy.

SAVIOR

This sweet appellation of our Lord is expressive of His great work. David was the first to use this appellation after God had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies. Isaiah called Him a "Savior, and a great one," 19:20. He does not only save the Church, but He will also save Israel and the world for He is not called in vain the Savior of the world. The world is now like a ball rolled away and lost in slime and slush, but He shall find it and cleanse it from all its iniquity and filth in His great day. He is the Life and the Light of the world but not of every creature.

SEED, Gal. 4:5

Christ is the seed of the woman, Gen. 3:15. Adam and Eve must have often pondered this mysterious phrase, containing as it does the virgin birth. Second, He was to be the seed of Shem, then the seed of Abraham, the seed of Isaac, the seed of Judah, the seed of David, and finally the seed of the virgin, Micah 5:3. As Jeremiah said, God created herein a new thing in the earth. All the lines finally converge on the Galilean maid. The will of man and the will of the flesh had nothing to do with it. It was all of Him, through Him, and to Him.

SERVANT

Isaiah especially spoke often, nineteen times, of our blessed Lord under this title, though we can fully grant the critics that a few times Jacob, and even Cyrus, were first of all meant with the term ebed Jehovah. When He humbled Himself to become a little babe in the likeness of sinful man, though without sin, then He humbled Himself still deeper and became a servant or slave, Luke 22:27. In Acts He is called several times Servant, 3:13, 26; 4:27, 30. He came to serve and save, He saved us to serve Him. He was faithful in all His house, are we?

SCEPTRE, Numbers 24:17

This metonymically denotes Christ as King. The world and even Christendom at large will not acknowledge the future scepter of Christ, and far less that this shall come out of Israel, and least of all that this Jewish sceptre shall banish all evil from the earth; but this is exactly what God teaches in His Word. All the Prophets have spoken of the times of restitution of all things, not of all persons, but of all things which sin and the evil one have brought under the power and vanity of sin. The mighty kings of earth often fail, but the sceptre of this heavenly King is a right sceptre, and He shall in the day of His glorious reign make right the impregnable basis of all might, peace, prosperity, and plenty. All the world will bow down before His golden sceptre.

SHADOW, Isa. 25:4

A shadow from the heat. This world has been overheated for six thousand years, but God has provided in Christ a shadow where the weary pilgrims may find rest, refreshment, restoration. He is also the Shadow of a rock in a weary land, 32:2. Those who refuse in unbelief this Shadow shall find that the road becomes hotter and hotter till there is no shadow to he found anymore. The times of refreshing shall be times of this wonderful Shadow, Acts 3:19.

SHEPHERD, Psalm 23

Many do not remember the close connection of this Psalm with Psalm 22. Why is this great Shepherd so good for His sheep, if it is not for the good Shepherd who was willing to be forsaken of God and man as we see there. As the good Shepherd He died for the sheep, John 10:10, as the great Shepherd He arose, Heb. 13:20. Little David, His type, could in behalf of the sheep slay a lion and a bear, He slew the devil, death, hell in behalf of His own. As the chief Shepherd He shall appear the second time to reward His own undershepherds, I Peter 5:1-4. Peter calls Him beautifully the Shepherd and bishop of souls, I Peter 2:25. The other sheep that He must bring in are not the Gentiles, but the future Israel. If He had meant the Gentiles, He would have used the word heteros and He used allos, which means another of the same sort, John 10:16. All the godly shepherds of the Old Testament typified Christ as the good, great, or chief Shepherd. All the shepherd-kings who ruled their people tenderly as a shepherd likewise. Although the shepherd-idea runs through all the Bible, this idea is not directly connected with His Body.

SHIELD, Gen. 15:1

The world is no friend to grace, but a place of hostility. Satan shoots his fiery darts, and our own flesh contains no good thing, which shows that we need protection. To the father of all the faithful God revealed Himself as the Shield, a most significant protection, when we realize that the ancient shields were made of bloody skins. They came from innocent life poured out in death, and thus all His own have protection from the crucified Jehovah-Jesus. He is our panoply, our defensive armor, and this Shield is anointed, II Sam. 1:21: Isa. 21:5. It was of old a disgrace to throw away the shield, II Sam. 1:21.

SHILOH, Gen. 49:10

Much has been written on this unique name of Christ, but the oldest and most general interpretation is perhaps still the most acceptable, and it means rest. The dying patriarch had behind him a life of unrest on account of his brother Esau, his scheming, selfish uncle Laban, his jealous wives and concubines, and his wicked sons that did away with the light of his eyes, Joseph, and now on his deathbed the thought is sweet to him that the promised Redeemer shall bring rest and peace. The word is related evidently to shalom, peace. We need this promised Shiloh, Who gave us by His self-sacrifice on the cross peace and rest of faith, far more today than Jacob in the hoary past. Oh Lord Jesus, how long?

SON

Christ is Son of God, Son of Abraham, Son of David, Son of man, Son of Mary. Son of man is His self-designation. Not less than eighty times does He use this appellation. It does not mean His humanity as many think. They reason this way: the Son of God denotes His Deity, and so the Son of man denotes His humanity; but this cannot be, for He forgives sin and does other divine works as Son of man. What theology feebly tries to express in the name God-man, the Lord expresses in this self-designation. Others never addressed Him as Son of man, and we should not do this either. Ezekiel typified in his person, called often son of man, the great Son of man. When He shall by and by burst from heaven on Israel's raptured sight, then He will he known to this nation as the Son of man, God and man in one adorable Person, just the point which Israel has denied during all the centuries of this age. Our Lord is Son of Abraham, Matt.1:1; Son of David, 9:27; Son of God, John 1:49; Son of man, 5: 27; Son of the blessed, Mark 14:61; Son of the Highest, Luke 1:32.

STAR, Num. 24:17

The stars exhibit God's power: the heavens declare His glory. The stars are for man innumerable. As early as Balaam Christ was heralded as the Star of Jacob, Numbers 24:17. His angels are also compared to stars, Job 38:7, while false teachers are called wandering stars, Jude 13. Good teachers shall some day shine like the stars, Daniel 12:3. The Star of Jacob was predicted long ago, even before Israel entered the land. The common thought is that the star of the wise men was the star of Jacob, but the Star of Jacob carries its on to His second appearing.

Behold the Day-star illumines the skies;

Ye slumbering virgins, unveil now your eyes:

The dark night is passing away.

SUN, Mal. 4:1, 2

Another descriptive name of our Savior. The sun is the source of all life, light, beauty, growth, fruitfulness on earth. Life would be utterly impossible on the globe without it. No wonder that men in many nations bowed down before it to pay homage to it as to a god. The Hebrew El Elyon became the helium, sun, with the Greeks, and it gave us many scientific words. It shows incidentally how large the sun loomed in the estimate of the early Hellenes. The Sun of righteousness shall not bring sunstroke but healing of all the present ills of the world, and this sun will never go down and never eclipse. No dark spots on this Sun, Matt. 17:2: Rev. 1:16; 10:1. Praise God, we have a place in the Sun.

SURETY, Heb. 7:22

There are two kinds of sureties, the conditional and the absolute. The former we find all around us in modern society. It means that the surety will pay when the person for whom he is surety fails to pay. Such a conditional surety our Savior is not. He knew from eternity that man would fail in every age and under every economy, and therefore He became our absolute Surety. Get this well, dear one, to appreciate your Savior all the more; knowing that we could not pay one farthing of all our debt, He became our unconditional Surety. "Jesus paid it all, all to Him I owe."

TEMPLE

Christ was the temple, John 2:19, 21. He has now a temple in the Church, I Cor. 3:16; II Cor. 6:16 ; Eph. 2:20-22, and also in the bodies of the saints. I Cor. 6:19, and in the city of God the Lamb is its temple. This is a most striking name, for of old God dwelt in the temple though heaven and earth could not contain

Him. God dwells bodily in the Son, but worship will be at its highest when all the worshippers have come home to glory, and all heaven, earth, and hell shall confess that He is Lord to the praise of God the Father. Are you like old Anna the prophetess always dwelling in this Temple?

TRUTH, John 14:6

Not only did truth come by Jesus Christ, but He is the Truth, John 1:17. Over against the shadow of the law He is the substance, over against the falsehoods of paganism He is all verity and veracity, over against the father of lies He is the source of all truth, over against man's fragmentary knowledge in part He has all the truth, and over against the various systems of philosophy He is all the intellectual, moral, metaphysical, spiritual, celestial, and Divine truth, absolute truth. His Word is truth and not a jot or tittle shall fall of it to the earth. His Spirit is the Spirit of truth, His salvation is the way of truth. When He comes truth shall spring out of the earth. He wants truth in the inward parts, and also in the outward paths. Let us be "truthing" in love.

VENGEANCE, Nah. 1:2

Vengeance is per se not devilish but divine, for Moses sang of old of God: “To me belongeth vengeance." Three times it is said in the sublime song of Deut. 32 that God will render vengeance, 35. 41, 43; and because He will render vengeance we may do it. Our vengeance can only be sweet for the flesh. He has a particular day of vengeance, Prov. 6:34; Isa. 34:8: 61:2; 63:4. He has a specific time of vengeance: Your God will come with vengeance, 35:4. He has garments of vengeance, 54:17. God has also a particular Person to take vengeance, because He has given all judgment into the hands of the Son.

The vengeance of our God is just as holy as His love. Nothing unholy and imperfect can ever proceed from an holy and perfect God and Savior. For vengeance the Dutch version has wreker, avenger. The Son is fully identified with God's holy revenge. Our world is now darkened by human vengeance, but soon it will be illumined by His holy vengeance. However, the morning cometh, and also the night, Isa. 21:11, 12.

VINE, John 15:1

Israel was the false vine. Christ the antitypical and true Vine, Psalm 80:8 ; Isa. 5:1-7; Deut. 33:32. This vine "cheereth God and man," Judges 9:13. The believers are the branches of this Vine, enjoying His life-saps, His fruit, and also His pruning-knife. He wants fruit, more fruit, much fruit. He is not bent upon the shadow, and the beauty, or the fragrance of the vine, but upon its fruit. But one thing is needed to bear fruit and that is to abide in Him. The vines of Eshcol have withered long ago, but this Vine flourishes and all that abide in Him flourish and bear much fruit to the glory of God the Father. Do not murmur when the pruning knife cuts into the core of your being, for this serves to the end that you should bear much fruit. In the past Israel sat under this Vine with peace, plenty, and prosperity, and in the day of His glorious reign it shall again sit peacefully under this Vine, Micah 4:4; Zech. 3:10. From this Vine we have the wine of the Spirit, that maketh glad the heart of man, Ps. 104:15. This true Vine perfumes for us the air with its fragrance, flowers, and fruit, Cant. 2:13; Hosea 14:7.

WAY, John 14:6

His way is in the whirlwind said the Prophet, a strange place for a way, but that is His way. We avoid whirlwinds if we can, He loves to have His way in it. He is the way to heaven.

Elijah's way was in a whirlwind to the land of glory. Many of the children of men like to go to heaven, but they want their own way, their self-chosen paths. They like to pay, or play their way into heaven, or work their way in, or torment or torture their way to heaven, but Jesus paid the way and is Himself the way, and there is no other way. All men are by nature out of the way and on the broad way that leads to destruction.

WISDOM, Prov. 8:12; I Cor. 1:30

The wisest on earth are but poor fools in comparison to this Wisdom. True wisdom is the use of the holiest means to the holiest ends. This personified Wisdom is public, hortatory, inviting to the fattest meal. Standing on the street corners she with clarion call invites all passers-by to come and dine at all the dainties of God's grace, and lo and behold this Wisdom is our Savior who by the way of the cross has become our Wisdom. When our life is desolate and we do not know what to do, then we should take Him and own Him as our Wisdom, who knows the way in the greatest darkness and trial. His way is generally not easy for the flesh; it is not a way of fame and worldly pleasure; in fact it may be a way of thorns, a way through the sea and through the deserts, but you can bank upon it, that Wisdom's way is always the best way. Oh take it to heart, dear child of God, that His will and way are always the best for all His own and hence also for you personally.

WITNESS, Isa. 55:4

Our Lord was sent as a witness by the Father before He sent out His Apostles as witnesses. The task of a witness is not to argue, debate, reason, or prove, but only to say what He has seen. As the sun witnesses of its light and warmth, so the Son gave witness in His Person, and also in His Word and His miracles. He cannot lie and exaggerate, and hence He is called the faithful Witness, Rev. 1:5 ; 3:14. He is the faithful Witness of heaven and earth, I John 5:7-11. No guile was ever found in His mouth. All that He ever spoke was true. He was without sin and could not lie. When John sees Him come from heaven, then he calls Him Faithful and True. Sinner friend, He has said: "Him that cometh unto me I will in nowise cast out," and this witness of Him is true for you also.

WORD, John 1:1; I John 5:7

In the first of his writings and in his last John glorifies the Son as the logos, Rev. 19:3. He is the Word of life. As a thought and word goes out from a person so the Son goes out from the Father. This Logos made all things, upholds all things, and has made all the worthwhile sciences among the children of men. When the heavens burst open and He rides triumphantly upon heaven's white stallion into this world, even then He will be the Logos, the Word of God, Rev. 19:13. If even the human word is mightier than the sword, what shall we then say of the unique power of this personal Word? Human words fail us to adequately describe this wonderful Word.

WORD OF LIFE, I John 1:1

Our blessed Lord is called simply Word, logos, John 1:1 ; I John 5:7; the Word of God, Rev. 19:13; and here the Word of life. There is an exact parallel between the written Word and the Personal Word of life. Both are living and both give life, and they are both divine, eternal, indestructible. Both are also hated and rejected by the wicked, and both are fervently loved by all the upright of heart. Our Lord is life, gives life, sustains life, strengthens and steers life to glory, where pleasures at His right hand are found forevermore.

WONDERFUL, Isa. 9:6

Our Savior was wonderfully announced four thousands years before He appeared, wonderfully heralded by John, wonderfully born, wonderfully crucified, buried, raised, and taken to heaven. No one ever loved as He did, and yet no one was ever hated as was He; no one ever taught as He did, no one ever wrought miracles as He did, but with Jonathan we can say of David's son and Lord: "Thy love to me is wonderful." His love to us doom-deserving sinners shall be the wonderment of all eternity. Wonderful names of our wonderful Lord!

WORM

With minor variations in form the word tolah and tolaah, worm, appear in Ex. 16:20: the manna bred worms and stank; Job 25:6: "the son of man a worm," corroborated by Himself in Psalm 22:6, "I am a worm and no man." Isaiah uses the word three times, 14:11; 41:14; 66:24, while we read in Jonah 4:7 that God prepared a worm. In other passages these same words have been translated scarlet thirty-four times and crimson once in Isa. 1:18, showing clearly that the colors crimson and scarlet came from a little worm, and particularly from its red blood. This shows that the scarlet mentioned in the tabernacle service picturizes typically the blood of Him who is called twice the toleah. A worm crawls in the dust. Men thoughtlessly step upon it. No one has pity upon the helpless, contemptible, squirming little thing in the mud, and thus it was with our blessed Savior in the garden. Nevertheless this Worm shall soon thresh mountains.

Having given herewith some of the most descriptive names and titles of the Lord of glory, we can understand something of the amazing statement of the Apostle Paul: that I may know Him - and how he could count all things but loss and dross for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ. The proper study of mankind is the man Christ Jesus.
